Location

Whilst the postal address lists the property as Horham, it really is closer to the small hamlet of Athelington, which is a pretty, rural village lying mid way between the towns of Framlingham and Eye offering an excellent network of maintained footpaths and bridleways. Horham itself offers a community centre and nearby is the larger village of Stradbroke offering excellent schooling, a health centre, leisure centre, library, shops, two public houses, and businesses. Diss is under 20 minutes by car and here there are both Morrisons and Tesco supermarkets, as well as a railway station with services between Norwich and London's Liverpool Street. The historic market town of Eye is just 6 miles away and here there are day to day shopping facilities, a health centre, library and good schooling. Framlingham, with its array of local shops, is approximately 10 miles from the property and offers state and public schooling.
